内容：学习图表类小作文的看图分段方法

学习表示历时变化的词汇和句型

难点：插入语表补充（包括独立主格结构）

➤ 雅思小作文目的：考察科研能力（提炼规律、趋势）

➤ Task 1: 按照以下四方面评分：

TA 凭图还原 task achievement:

Fully satisfies all the requirements of the task; clearly presents a fully developed response

(数据找对、不遗漏重要信息)

CC 句接段连 cohesion and coherence

Skillfully manages paragraphing; use cohesion in such a way that it attracts no attention

(呈现清晰、分段合理，连接自然)

LR 词准词变 lexical range

a wide range of vocabulary with very natural and sophisticated control of lexical features

(词准、词性转变、修饰语、搭配、词组)

GRA 狂秀语法准确和多变

grammatical range and accuracy

(无错、语法结构类型丰富，从句多样)

➤ 6 种类型的图：

1.1 Match the labels to the correct illustrations.

1 pie chart 2 table 3 bar chart / bar graph 4 graph 5 diagram 6 flowchart

F

Sydney	3.6
Melbourne	2.9
Brisbane	2.6
Canberra	1.8

➤ 基本原则

1 小作文是把 visual information 变成 verbal information，应避免推测性质的信息。尽量不要出现人称，如 I can see that...。

- 2.“从图中可以看出” it can be seen that..., it is clear that... it is immediately apparent that 这样的话其实没用，可以不要写。
3. 小作文不一定需要有结尾，结尾一般是最 general 的信息，图中没有则可以不写。
4. 跟图中数据相关的所有动词都用过去式，对将来的预估用将来时，开头结尾用一般现在时。
5. 图中有未来时间的注意用将来时，或者用 is predicted to, is projected to, according to estimation, is expected to...

➤ 看图公式

- 是否有时间轴：如果有，既看变化，又看对比，没有则只有对比（往往有多组对比对象）
- 项目是否多：大于等于四个项目，则分组写（分 2-3 组，相似或相反的情况归为一组）
- 历时变化：谁在升？谁在降？谁最快？谁最慢？哪段时间快？哪段时间慢？
- 共时对比：谁最多？谁最少？（项目多时）哪些共同？哪些个体特征？哪段时间差别大？哪段时间差别小

➤ 分段方式

- 整篇文章共分 3-5 段
- 图本身信息 2-3 段
- 分段方法: 1. 按时间段分(项目少于 4, 一般在比较中间的位置找折点)
2 按项目分组分段 (项目大于 4, 相似或者相反的情况分到一组写)

图表作文看图分段范例：

1. The table below shows the result of a survey into the most commonly misplaced personal items. People were asked which of these items they had lost or misplaced in the last month.

	15-30	31-55	Over 55

范文分析：

The graph below gives information from a 2008 report about consumption of energy in the USA since 1980 with projections until 2030.

Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The graph shows energy consumption in the US from 1980 to 2012, and projected consumption to 2030.

Petrol and oil are the dominant fuel sources throughout this period, with 35 quadrillion (35q) units used in 1980, rising to 42q in 2012. Despite some initial fluctuation, from 1995 there was a steady increase. This is expected to continue, reaching 47q in 2030.

Consumption of energy derived from natural gas and coal is similar over the period. From 20q and 15q respectively in 1980, gas showed an initial fall and coal a gradual increase, with the two fuels equal between 1985 and 1990. Consumption has fluctuated since 1990 but both now provide 24q. Coal is predicted to increase steadily to 31q in 2030, whereas after 2014, gas will remain stable at 25q.

In 1980, energy from nuclear, hydro and solar/wind power was equal at only 4q. Nuclear has risen by 3q, and wind by 2. After slight increases, hydropower has fallen back to the 1980 figure. It is expected to maintain this level until 2030, while the others should rise slightly after 2025.

Overall, the US will continue to rely on fossil fuels, with sustainable and nuclear energy sources remaining relatively insignificant.

练习

The graph below shows the number of private cars used between the years 1920 to 1980, in three different countries. Write a report for a university lecturer describing the information.

难点: 较长对比对象的省略

例题 1 The following table gives statistics showing the aspects of quality of life in five countries.

Country	GNP per head 1982 (US dollars)	Daily calorie supply per head	Life expectancy at birth (years)	Infant mortality rates (per 1000 live birth)
Bangladesh	140	1877	40	132
Bolivia	570	2086	50	124
Egypt	690	2950	56	97
Indonesia	580	2296	49	87
U.S.A	1316	3652	74	12

The figures reveal the quality of life in five countries in 1982, namely Bangladesh, Bolivia, Egypt, Indonesia and the U.S.A.

It is clear from the table that Americans' GNP was considerably higher than those of others, reporting 1316 dollars. Its daily calorie supply for per capita was also the highest, at 3652. Meanwhile, Americans enjoyed the longest life expectancy at 74 years, while\whilst their infant mortality rate was the lowest at only 1.2%.

In contrast, the people in Bangladesh lived the poorest lives of all. This was most evident in its GNP at 140 dollars, being only one tenth of that of Americans, as well as the lowest of five countries. Besides, its daily calorie consumption and life expectancy and were also the least at 1877 each person and 40 years respectively, while its infant mortality rate was the highest at 13.2%, being ten times of the American one.

The other three countries maintain middle positions. The GNP of them, in decreasing order, were Egypt ($690), Indonesia ($580) and Bolivia ($570). Similar patterns can be seen in the other three columns.

Overall, it is clearly shown that there are significant differences in every aspect of quality of life in five countries.

例子 2: Writing Task 1 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The charts below show US spending patterns from 1966 to 1996. Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant. You should write at least 150 words.

写作范例：

The pie charts show changes in American spending patterns between 1966 and 1996.

Food and cars made up the two biggest items of expenditure in both years. Together they comprised over half of household spending. Food accounted for 44% of spending in 1966, but this dropped by two thirds to 14% in 1996. Contrary to it, the outlay on cars doubled, rising from 23% in 1966 to 45% in 1996.

Other areas changed significantly. _____

Some areas remained relatively unchanged. Americans spent approximately the same amount of salary on petrol and furniture in both years.

Overall, significant changes had happened to American people's consumption patterns during the three decades

Key: Spending on eating out doubled, climbing from 7% to 14%. The proportion of salary spent on computers increased dramatically, up from 1% in 1966 to 10% in 1996. However, as computer expenditure rose, the percentage of outlay on books plunged from 6% to 1%.

The chart below shows the amount of money per week spent on fast foods in Britain. The graph shows the trends in consumption of fast foods.

Write a report for a university lecturer describing the information shown below.

You should write at least 150 words.

You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

model answer:

The bar chart and the graph respectively depict the expenditure from three British income groups in 1990 and the total amounts people spent on three major types of fast food over two decades (1970-1990).

The chart shows that high income earners consumed considerably more fast foods than the other income groups, spending more than twice as much on hamburgers (43 pence per person per week) than on fish and chips or pizza (both under 20 pence). Average income earners also favoured hamburgers, spending 33 pence per person per week, followed by fish and chips at 24 pence, then pizza at 11 pence. Low income earners appear to spend less than other income groups on fast foods, though fish and chips remains their most popular fast food, followed by hamburgers and then pizza.

From the graph it can be seen that in 1970, fish and chips were twice as popular as burgers, pizza being at that time the least popular fast food. The consumption of hamburgers and pizza has risen steadily over the 20 year period to 1990 while the consumption of fish and chips has been in decline over that same period with a slight increase in popularity since 1985.

The diagram illustrates how used aluminum cans are recycled, which consists of six main stages all together.

In the first stage, residents in communities send used cans at home to an agreed collecting point where cans are placed in a large container. Following this, the collected cans are delivered to the processing factory where the cans are cleaned, before they are sorted. After sorting, the cans need to be shredded and compressed into solid aluminum cubes which are then put into a furnace (n.炉子) for heating so that they are melted.

The melted material is rolled by a machine into a thin and regularly shaped piece, with a thickness of roughly 2.5mm to 6mm. Once this is ready, the material is manufactured into new cans by can-makers. The flow ends with reusing the cans in supermarkets. As statistics have it(据统计), approximately 74% of all supermarket cans are recycled in the UK.

Overall, through recollecting, processing and manufacturing, cans can be reused, thus helpful to the environment. (字数够了的话, 流程图不结尾也没有关系)

The diagram below shows how raw materials are used to make plastic products. Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram presents the manufacture of five different types of tea. It is immediately apparent that although all the teas are produced from the same leaf, the differences in the manufacturing process result in five different types of tea.

The first three stages of manufacture are the same for all of the five teas. The leaves are grown, they are then plucked, and following this withering of the leaves occurs. The final stage is also the same, which sees all the leaves dried in an oven.

However, in the stages in between this, differing methods of production are employed. To begin, white tea is unique as it involves no other processing. In contrast, green, oolong and large leaf black tea are all rolled as part of the process. However, while green tea is steamed before being rolled but is not fermented, the other two teas are first rolled and then both fermented (oolong only slightly but large leaf black completely). Finally, small leaf black tea is neither steamed nor rolled, but is crushed before being fully fermented.

The diagram explains the way in which bricks are made for the building industry. Overall, there are seven stages in the process, beginning with the digging up of clay and culminating in delivery.

To begin, the clay used to make the bricks is dug up from the ground by a large digger. This clay is then placed onto a metal grid, which is used to break up the clay into smaller pieces. A roller assists in this process.

Following this, sand and water are added to the clay, and this mixture is turned into bricks by either placing it into a mould or using a wire cutter. Next, these bricks are placed in an oven to dry for 24 – 48 hours.

In the subsequent stage, the bricks go through a heating and cooling process. They are heated in a kiln at a moderate and then a high temperature (ranging from 200c to 1300c), followed by a cooling process in a chamber for 2 – 3 days. Finally, the bricks are packed and delivered to their destinations.

2. The diagram below shows how a central heating system in a house works. Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

This diagram provides an overview of a domestic central heating system. It shows how the tank, boiler and pipes ensure a constant flow of hot water to both the radiators and the taps.

The cold water enters the house and is stored in a water storage tank in the roof. From there it flows down to the boiler, located on the ground floor of the house.

The boiler, which is fuelled by gas or oil, heats up the water as it passes through it. The hot water is then pumped round the house through a system of pipes and flows into the radiators, located in different rooms. The water circulates through the radiators, which have small tubes inside them to help distribute the heat, and this warms each of the rooms. Some of the water is directed to the taps to provide hot water for the house.

Once the water has been through the pipes and radiators, it is returned to the boiler to be re-heated and circulated round the house again.

Introduction: First sentence. Overview: Second sentence.

Key features: Entry of cold water into boiler; circulation of hot water to radiators and taps; return of water to boiler.

The diagrams below show the changes that have taken place at West Park Secondary School since its construction in 1950.

Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagrams show West Park School at three different stages in its development: 1950, 1980 and 2010.

In 1950, the school was built close to a main road and next to a number of houses. A large area behind the school was a playground, while the area behind the house was farmland.

By 1980, the houses had been demolished in order to make space for a small car park and an additional school building, which became the science block. In addition to the existing playground, the school also gained the farmland and converted it into a sports field.

In 2010, the school building remained unchanged but the car park was extended to cover the entire sports field. As a result of this, the original playground was divided into two so that it provided a smaller playground and a small sports field.

During this period, the school has increased in size and a car park has been created and enlarged. The combined recreational areas, however, first expanded and were then reduced in size.

The maps below show Hunderstone town at present and a proposed plan for it.

The maps illustrate a number of proposed changes that are to take place in the town of Hunderstone.

In general, while the area to the east of the railway will remain almost the same, the western side is going to undergo several significant changes, especially with regards to the transport infrastructure.

As can be seen in the first map, Hunderstone Town is currently divided into two main areas by a railway line, which runs from north to south and passes by a gas station. To the west of the railway, there is an air field which is connected to the main road (A1). A roundabout in the middle of this road connects the A1 road to the east of the town, and in particular, to the ring road around the town centre.

In the future, the airfield in the north west of Hunderstone Town is expected to be replaced by an industrial estate. A new railway line will also be constructed to provide further access to this area. In addition, a new, larger roundabout will be constructed midway along the road connecting the east and west of the town. A new road (A4) which will connect the A1 to the town centre will also be built in the south of the town.

Map of Brandfield with two proposed sites for a shopping mall. Summarise the information by selecting and reporting the main features and make comparisons where relevant.

The map illustrates plans for two possible sites for a shopping mall in the city of Brandfield. It can be seen that the two sites under consideration are in the north and the south east of the town.

The first possible site for the shopping mall, S1, is just north of the city centre, above the railway line, which runs from the southeast of the city to the northwest. If it is built here, it will be next to a large housing estate, thus providing easy access for those living on the estate and in the city centre. It will also be next to the river, which runs through the town.

The site in the south east, S2, is again just by the railway line and fairly close to the city centre, but it is near an industrial estate rather than housing. There is a main road that runs through the city and is close to both sites, thus providing good road access to either location. A large golf course and park in the west of the town prevents this area from being available as a site.

The maps illustrate how Meadowside village and Fonton, which is a neighboring town, have developed over three different time periods (1962, 1985 and the present).

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The maps illustrate how Meadowside village and Fonton, which is a neighboring town, have developed over three different time periods (1962, 1985 and the present).

Overall, Meadowside village increased in size and has become Meadowside Suburb as it merged together with Fonton. Furthermore, there have been significant changes in infrastructure, housing and facilities over the period given.

In 1962, both Meadowside and Fonton were completely separate with no roads or rail connecting them. While Fonton had a railway line running through it to the north, Meadowside, located to the west of Fonton, only had a small road from the west.

By 1985, there was a considerable growth in the size of Meadowside village and Fonton. The small road in Meadowside village had been converted into a main road and was also extended to the east to connect with Fonton. Meadowside, moreover, had also developed a housing estate in the west, a leisure complex and a supermarket in the south.

Currently, both Meadowside, which is now a suburb, and Fonton are joined. The railway line, which runs through Fonton, has been extended to the west where a train station has been built. To the north of the station, a hotel has been constructed and opposite the station, to the south, there is now a business park.
